

Casper Becker

Mar 10, 1888 - Feb 20, 1907

The funeral of Casper Becker, brief mention of whose death was made in these columns last week, was held on Friday afternoon last at 1 o'clock from the house and later at the German Reformed church. The services were conducted by the Rev. Carl Heyl and a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends were in attendance to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. Had he lived until the 15th of next month, the deceased would have been nineteen years of age. He was an only son, a promising and industrious boy, and his untimely death is a severe blow to the bereaved parents and the four sisters who survive him. The remains were interred in the local cemetery.
